- Both speakers were clearly well-researched and had definitive points to back up their arguments. Therefore each side was represented well by each speaker and each did a good job of ~~reflecting~~ addressing issues with their opponents' arguments. The Neg. was designated the winner as the negative income tax solution was presented as the more feasible option with greater economic benefit and presented more clearly.

The Negative Won because they argued about how the plan would cause inequality by classes, the Affirmative kept dropping the rates (holward only argue how it would cause an increase of 12.56% of economic growth? but with the plan it would cut welfare programs & increase taxes.

Morality Equality vs Equity

- Aff more relevant
- More diverse content with evidence

Resolved: The US ought to implement universal basic income.

Neg wins on feasibility, defeating the point of UBI because taxes increase.
 Also aff dropped welfare + poverty 2nd contention.

I didn't really understand it, but it was dropped so impacts flow. ~~Aff won~~ ~~education~~ Neg kinda lost inflation bc of Canada, and aff won female empowerment, but taxes + feasibility trumps.

Let's

I vote Neg bc

① FW of the HFF is dropped. The Neg extends this and replaces w/ their own FW that's unresponded to; meaning I default QBL.

② On Econ; I need an articulated offensive response

③ Lacking Effectiveness: Case turns
