Wow! Awesome Round ladies. It was a pleasure watching you. Aff you did drop Neg's contention 4th. I checked w/ tab and new points are ok in rebuttal. Neg you didn't expand on why preserving culture even mattered. Great point that Aff brought up. Neg had a great point about landlords increasing cost as they went in the end they went larger profits. A very great round to watch a difficult round to judge. You balanced in impacts and rebuttals. The win goes to the neg due to the two dropped points that stood across the flow.

(Team A - Late / unprepared initially)

Team A Affirmative wins by clarification on the missing rebuttal: Link between segregation / deinstitutionalization / displacement. No valid answer because Team B did not give evidence. Also, Tony Lu stated properties that do not rent well (or make money) will be sold and converted to condos. (Indeed, This is true.).

Team B - Clinton brings up what happens to people in low income housing now? What happens to them? Very good

Team B Very Prepared

Ethan Liu good catch of opponent's weak evidence.

Suggestion: Don't try to avoid the opponent's questions but think and argue why the question is lack of merits.

Daniel Z.

Make link clear between Rent control and Neg side Contention 1 subc does not belong should be moved elsewhere

Regan

None of your arguments really related back to MRH, you need more meat and evidence in the case.

Daniel W

Shorten the sentence when ending. Don't act so snobby in CF

Sarah

Try to directly attack the argument instead of just saying MRH good. Try not to rely on your partner so much. I know it's hard but make sure to work on it.

- State your contentions more succinctly. It wasn't obvious to ^{me} how they supported your stance.
- Darren - you need to be more prepared, there was a lot of looking through your papers ~~and~~ and long pause during your speech.
- Need better rebuttal - simply stating "our opponents rebuttal has no impact" won't work - you need to explain why theirs didn't, and yours did - but you didn't do that.
- Strong opening, clear statements on your contentions with good supporting evidence.
- ~~if you~~ did a great job with the cross examination and subsequent speech by continuously reinforcing your points and evidence.
